

WE RISE BY LIFTING OTHERS

Canada needs more than poverty reduction plans and targets that we never meet. We want a Basic Income Guarantee that demonstrates results.

We support a Guaranteed Basic Income (GBI) Demonstration Project in Prince Edward Island (PEI) that is designed to dramatically reduce poverty.

This will be evaluated to demonstrate improvements in wellbeing for those who receive it, AND cost savings in health care, social services, justice and public safety systems – showing once and for all that lifting people out of poverty is more productive and cost effective than trapping people in poverty.

Why PEI?

PEI has all-party support for a GBI that would reduce poverty from 10% to 2% and cost 40% less than previous basic income models. It has already developed a framework that is ready to demonstrate how it can achieve these kinds of results.

Why a Demonstration Project?

To study the benefits for people and communities on a provincial scale, and to identify government cost savings on current poverty-related services and supports.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

We need volunteers in every riding in Canada who will collect 30 handwritten signatures on a paper petition and ask their local MP to present it in the House of Commons.
